DEBATE
ON THE JOINT RESOLUTION

Approving the conduct of the Executive, in relation to the refusal to receive any further communication from Francis Jas. Jackson.

In committee of the whole Mr. BASSET in the chair—

Thus far, sir, I have considered the resolution before us as not warranted by the official language of the president of the U. States and the secretary of state. In addition to what has already been observed with this view, it is to be noted that the president in his message to Congress, has not even mentioned Mr. Jackson's circular letter to the British consuls. This letter, indeed, and its being put into circulation, are noticed, but not with laborious hardness of phrase, in the letter of the 23d of November, from secretary Smith to Mr. Pinkney. But the president of the United States did not regard the subject as worthy to be named by him when giving to Congress information of the state of the union and recommending the measures necessary and expedient.

The president's message and the secretary's letter appear expressive of a disposition to use language which should not in its manner be offensive to the British government itself, and to suspend proceedings of an hostile character until an answer may be received from that government. This resolution appears to be formed on directly opposite principles. What, sir, can Congress, can any men think it necessary to say that they will support the president in refusing to receive a communication from a foreign minister, or, that they will support him with the whole force of the nation in so refusing? You do not expect the minister to force a communication on the president. This is too absurd and cannot be the real meaning of the resolution. The only manly idea intended to be conveyed by the resolution in this respect must be, that the Congress mean to support the president in a conflict with the British government eventually. Why, sir, is such language at the present time proposed for adoption, as if it were either necessary or expedient? The British government perhaps may not be perfectly satisfied with the conduct of this administration towards the minister from G. Britain to the U. States and yet it might be thought proper to recall him; because unacceptable to the president of the U. S. because the president has requested his recall, and because under existing circumstances the further continuance of such a minister in this country might not be useful to the government that sent him. Do you wish to place the affair in such a state as to render it peculiarly difficult for the British government to recall him, except in prelude to war?

Do you approbate the procedure of the president in causing application to be made by the secretary of state in a style of guarded decorum, instructing the American minister at London to request the recall of the British minister who has been here received, and will you send a menace to accompany the request? In this view what is the proposed resolution, if it be any thing? What is meant by a solemn pledge to the world for calling into action the whole force of a nation eventually against a foreign power? If language has certainty of meaning, it is a provisional defiance of war, solemnly made known to the world—a national challenge to battle. Have you weighed fully all that is implied in this defiance of war? Are you prepared to sustain it fully by all your means? Or can you say that you do not intend this? Is it possible that the representatives of the people of the U. S. can solemnly announce to the world a pledge to call into action the whole force of the nation, and yet that it can be all idle words? That in fact they intend to do no such thing as they promise? Are we indeed prepared to pronounce ourselves fallen thus low?

Considering gentlemen as serious in announcing this pledge to the world, and giving this national defiance to war, I ask what is to be the result of the conflict if we are not prepared for it, and how far are we prepared? This enquiry suggests an intention to the resolution under two different aspects, as we know the relations of executive departments to be affected or varied according to views of peace or war. On questions of great national controversy, the department of state has in charge to attend to those gratifying themes, the rights, the honor and dignity of the nation and government. And these themes may be presented the more for public attention as the state of affairs becomes hostile until their most imposing influence over the public passions is realised under the operations of declared war. In a state of peace the department of the treasury may attract regard from redundance of revenue and extinction of debt, and projects of improvement. But the frown of war reverses the scene. On this department is now devolved the task of devising ways and means for supplying extraordinary expenditure of waste. The ungrateful subjects of attention are the exhaustion of the treasury—loans—taxation—the option of difficulties in procuring money—the choice between different modes of imposing pecuniary burdens on the people. If this resolution be pursued according to its import, additional charges on the people must be required. To give eclat to the department of state, can you be willing to embarrass the department of the treasury?

There is another reason why we should be cautious. Can it be expedient for the public to make experiments tending to waste the national character? More than two years have elapsed since an interdictory proclamation was fulminated from the palace against the British navy. A squadron concerned in committing the offence mentioned in the proclamation, was suffered to remain for several months within the waters of the United States in open defiance of the executive interdict and the exclusive right of territorial jurisdiction. There that squadron was suffered to remain, although the power given to the President by statute, I believe, extended to employing the military and naval forces of the United States and the militia at the President's discretion, to compel respect to his proclamation. The offending squadron was suffered to remain there, notwithstanding the number, which the government had, of those highly recommended [illegible] vehicles denominated gun-boats. The indignity then was greater than is to be found in the subject of this resolution. Yet the government did not then assert the paramount right of territorial sovereignty with effect. With such experience, what honor, what utility is to be expected from passing this resolution now? What is to be expected but irritation without benefit, embarrassment without extrication? When they attend to your measures, will foreign powers believe that such a resolution proves your title to respect?

FOREIGN.

VIA NEW-YORK.

LONDON, November 13.

The reported defeat of the Toulon fleet, has not yet received that confirmation which those, who, on Saturday so confidently announced the event, expected. Whatever may have been the event, the report is at any rate premature. We shall, however, sincerely rejoice at a confirmation of the rumour.

The coincidence of circumstances between the battle of Talavera, and that in which the duke del Parque has defeated the French under gen. Marchand, is not a little extraordinary. In the battle of Talavera the French army attacked the British, who were posted on a height. At the battle of Tamema the French attacked the army of the duke del Parque, which was posted on a height. The defeat of the French, in both instances has been contended for. Lord Wellington, however, only talked of following the enemy—but the insulted Spaniards assert, that their army pursued the French and captured one piece of cannon. We, however, see no cause to yield our reason to our wishes. Either, the French force has been much smaller than is represented, or the consequences of their defeat and retreat will turn out to be of negative advantage. What have we seen to induce a belief that 18000 inexperienced Spanish troops, should completely defeat 12000 veterans, supported by a superiority of cavalry and artillery? We hope that the consequences of this victory will not be so lamentable as were those of Talavera.

The Spaniards, it seems, are levying fresh troops with great vigor, and want only arms. Is it credible, that, with all their vigor, Ministers should have found the manufactories of England incompetent to supply the Spaniards?

A report was in circulation this afternoon, that the French general Kellerman, had arrived in town—but we have been unable to trace it to any correct source. That such a visit should be made, would not at all surprize us; but however the defenders of the Cintra Convention, of which that general was the negociator—might be rejoiced at the arrival of so unskilful a diplomatist, as in their opinions he must be—we tremble for the collective wisdom of the Cabinet, if opposed to that of this Frenchman.

Lord Wellesley was expected to embark at Cadiz in the first week of this month—His Lordship, we understand, has agreed to join the present administration. It is supposed he will take the management of the Foreign Department.

Extract of a letter from Lisbon, dated Oct. 26.

"Lord Wellington leaves here to-morrow to join the army.

"A serious affray took place last night at Belem:—some of the 1st dragoons drinking in a tavern, quarrelled among themselves. The man of the house went out and called in the Portuguese police, who attacked the dragoons and shot one of them dead. The dragoons immediately drew their swords, killed three of the police & wounded several. One of the police placed himself behind a door where he expected some of the dragoons would enter; but it happened to be his own officer that first came in. The police man run him through the heart, and he instantly expired."

A letter from Cadiz, dated Oct. 20, contains the following:

"The Marquis of Wellesley still remains at Seville.

"The immortal Gerona has, we fear, fallen.

"Could your Ministers be persuaded to make a radical reform in the Commissariat department, and place experienced mercantile men at the head, with full powers to act, your army would then be useful allies to the Spaniards; as matters stand, they are only in the way, and destroy in one week that which, properly husbanded, might serve a month."

A letter from Seville, dated October 20, says:

"What with threats from Cadiz, with plots in this city, and with open rebellion to the established Councils in Valencia, the Government is completely paralyzed. Nothing is done either in commerce or civil affairs, or even in military concerns, except sending recruits to the armies, which is attended to as fast as weapons can be provided for them, and arrangements made for their subsistence."

Bonaparte, it is stated, has convened a Conclave of Cardinals at Paris, for the purpose as is rumored, of placing Fesche at the head of the Romish Church.

Letters from Cadiz state a prevailing opinion that the supreme Junta would be dissolved, and the Archbishop of Toledo declared Regent. The 28th was the day appointed for electing the new President of the Junta. It was supposed that Marquis Wellesley would defer his return, until the issue of this great political crisis was known.

November 14.

In the different offices of government, it was said, yesterday afternoon, that a merchant in the city of the name of Hogham, had received a Moniteur, stating that six French line of battle ships had been destroyed in a late action in the Mediterranean, and four English. As the Moniteur, however, has not been sent to his majesty's ministers, which of course it would have been had it contained that intelligence, we doubt whether any such paper has been received. But we are not at all weakened in our belief that an action has taken place, and a victory been gained. The article from Nismes, in the Rotterdam Courant of the 9th, is decisive in our minds as to the fact of two sail of the line having been driven on shore and blown up. But, we trust, that this is not the sole loss sustained by the enemy—that these two ships will prove to have been the two which attempted to make their escape after the defeat of the French fleet, and were run ashore to prevent their falling into our hands. And this belief we are led to indulge with some confidence by other accounts which have been received, and which state that the enemy lost six sail of the line in the action. The Seville Diary of October 14, stated, that there had been an obstinate action on the coast of Marseilles, between the French fleet from Toulon, and the English fleet under Lord Collingwood; that the loss of the French was six ships, and that of the English four; but that the whole of the French convoy had been taken. The same paper of the 17th, states that the French convoy had been carried into Majorca.

Some letters from Caen of the 7th, mention the action in general terms, and say that the French were defeated, but give no particulars. If the French papers acknowledge the action, they will of course attempt to make a set off against any loss they have sustained, by declaring that our loss was nearly as great. After the victories of the 1st of June, of Aboukir, and Trafalgar, they said, in speaking of that of Aboukir, that they had one ship blown up. With respect to the battle of Trafalgar, they actually published bulletins in different parts of France, claiming the victory, and asserting that we had lost 10 or 12 sail of the line.—We perfectly well remember that some British seamen who were prisoners of war at the time in France, did not know the result of the battle till they returned home.—Equally false was the account which they published of the result of the battle of the 1st June—but there was something ludicrous in the lie—for they actually declared that part of their fleet [that which we had either taken, sunk, or destroyed] was left blockading the British fleet in Portsmouth harbor.

Yesterday afternoon a cabinet council was held at the foreign office, which was attended by the following members: the lord Chancellor, earls Bathurst, Camden, Chatham, Liverpool, and Harrowby: lord Mulgrave, and Chancellor of the exchequer.

We are sorry to hear that earl Camden is very severely indisposed, at his house in Arlington-street.

Yesterday several ladies, who have been inhumanly detained in France during the war, arrived in town, in consequence of the order which has at length been given for the release of the women. A gentleman also contrived to make his escape, and came over in the same vessel, an American. He left Paris on the 14th inst. They all confirm the account of Bonaparte's epilepsy, and say that he continues at Fontainbleau for the purpose of recruiting his health.—But his mind is as active as ever. He is, if possible, more rancorous in his enmity to England. All the endeavor that has been made by the British government to procure an exchange of prisoners, or the enlargement of those detained at the commencement of the war, have failed. They all speak of the state of wretchedness that prevails in the country. Universal complaints are heard of the fatal effects of his insatiable ambition.

Letters from Cadiz of the 29th and 30th ult. state, that the French were concentrating their forces round Madrid; and that the Spanish armies remain in the same positions as our former accounts stated.

We understand that the project of the appointment of the cardinal of Toledo as regent, was negatived. After which the principle of the executive committee was agreed upon; and a specific plan for the conduct of the government proposed, but this was also negatived. A second plan was then digested, and was to be taken into consideration, but the fate of this proposition we have not heard, though it was …ppose that it would share the same fate …its predecessor.

The following is an extract of a letter …m marshal Dumonceau to his majesty, …ted the first inst. from his head-quarters …Goes:

"SIRE—

I have the honor of still being ena…d to transmit to your majesty the most …factory intelligence with regard to the …duct of the Dutch troops; and also the …te of defence of the most important points …the different islands of this departm…nt. …om every information that I can learn, it …pears certain, that the views of the ene…y are exclusively confined to the town of …ushing, and that all the accounts of their …ving received reinforcements are un…unded. On the contrary, the enemy's …rce in that quarter rather seems to be re…uced; for, in the course of last week, up…ards of 700 sick were embarked from the …and of Walcheren for Engl…nd. The …aladies which prevail among the enem…y's …oops are decidedly to be ascribed to the …imate and season; and it is therefore but …atural to conclude, that they should equal…y affect your majesty's troops; though, on …e other hand, the great attention of the …edical department, and every possible as…sistance in the Royal Hospitals, have been …tended with the happiest effects; so that, …n the course of last month, no less than …525 men, were discharged from the hos…pitals, and rejoined their respective corps."

From a return of the same date, trans…mitted by the marshal, it appears, that there …till remained in the hospital six officers …nd 799 men sick, and 1 officer and 596 …n the list of convalescents.

[From the New-York Evening Post.]

Mr. Jackson dismissed and our fate de…ided in France.—I am so circumstanced …hat I had not knowledge yesterday of the …rticle, extracted from a late French peri…odical work, in time to make a single re…mark upon the very extraordinary fact it …ontained. But it is impossible to let it …ass without observation.

This article seems to be part of an Ad…dress to the French nation on the subject of …their foreign affairs, and is written by ONE …of BONAPARTE' SENATORS. After inform…ing them, in a style of triumph, that "the …ace with Russia is but the happy prelude …of that which is about to unite all the flags …with that of France against the flag of En…gland: that Sweden is about to treat with …Denmark and Prussia, and to obtain from …France oblivion for the past," the writer …comes to the U. States. And what does he …condescend to say of us? What informa…tion does he give the people of France re…specting us? You shall hear, fellow-citi…zens. He tells them that the United States …are fast approaching the above coalition with …the Northern powers, and that as the first …evidence and guarantee of our dispositions …and intentions, we are not backward in …shewing our resentment against England: …and he CONGRATULATES them that our …ambassador, John Quincy Adams, had al…ready arrived at Copenhagen, in his way …to Russia. Here we must pause one in…stant, to remind the reader that we long …ago declared our opinion that Jefferson's …precipitate, mysterious and UNCONSTI…TUTIONAL APPOINTMENT of Mr. …Short to Russia, was for no other purpose, …than to NEGOCIATE AN ALLIANCE WITH …THAT POWER AND FRANCE AGAINST ENG…LAND. The baneful mission of the apostate …Adams has no other object in view. To …return to the article under consideration: …it proceeds in these striking and never-to…be-forgotten words: "THE AMERICANS …NO MORE—THEY HAVE REJECTED …THE ENGLISH MINISTER, MR. …JACKSON." They have indeed rejected …him. They had almost rejected him then, …when the article was written; probably a…bout the 1st November, for it was extract…ed from a London paper of the 10th, from …which it is taken. Yes, Americans, it was …known, it was NOT conjectured, it was NOT …reported, IT WAS KNOWN, it was …known and CONFIDENTLY stated as A …FACT AT PARIS, NOT that Mr. Jack…son SHOULD BE (that they could …have told long before) but that Mr. Jackson …ACTUALLY WAS DISMISSED earl…y in November; so he was. He was dis…missed at Washington, on the 8th of Nov. …and it was known in France, more than three …thousand miles distance. THE SAME DAY, …and ACTUALLY STATED TO THE FRENCH …NATION. In the same manner, the embargo …was known at Paris, and stated in their pub…lic coffee rooms, before it was known at New …York. And after all this there are people, and honest people too, so moonstruck as to believe that Napoleon had no hand in this thing. Let these good people dream on, if they can, in blind confidence in their leaders. I am much mistaken if the time is not at hand when they will start up from this lethargy as if struck by the deadly fangs of the rattlesnake. May not the stroke that awakens them to life only open their eyes to be closed at once and forever on all they hold dear!

It appears by the Halifax papers, that Kelly, the piratical mate of the schooner Three Sisters, had been taken by a party of the Nova Scotia Regiment, between Petty Harbor and the bay of Bulls, and was carried to Halifax, examined, and was to be arraigned for trial on the 8th inst. It is supposed he will share the fate of the wretched Jordan.

[After Mr. Fisk sat down yesterday, the committee rose, reported progress and had leave to sit again. The house then adjourned.]

Mr. Newton from the committee of commerce and manufactures, on the petition of William Hawkins, reported a bill for his relief. Read twice and referred to a committee of the whole on Monday.

Several private petitions and local resolutions, were read and referred.

Mr. Poindexter offered a resolution for appointing a committee to enquire into the expediency of allowing an additional Judge in the Mississippi territory, to reside in the county of Madison, with the same authority as the Judge in the county of Washington, and that the said committee report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Eppes moved to strike out the words report by bill or otherwise. The mover agreed, and the resolution was adopted.

Mr. Dawson asked leave of absence for Mr. Gholdson for four days from yesterday. Granted.

Mr. Nicholson offered a resolution for appointing a committee to enquire into the expediency of making provision by law for constructing roads and canals, and establishing seminaries of learning throughout the United States. Laid on the table and ordered to be printed.

The Speaker read a letter from Peter Landies, enclosing a petition praying compensation for certain vessels taken by him while master of the frigate Alliance, during the revolutionary war. Referred to the committee of claims.

The house went into committee of the whole on the resolutions from the Senate, Mr. Bassett in the chair.

Mr. Milnor rose and made a very able speech in favor of the resolutions. This is the best we have yet heard on that side of the question.

THE SMILE.

Wouldst thou Mary, wouldst thou know,
What can ev'ry grief beguile?
'Tis when on thy lovely brow,
Sits a fond endearing smile!

Yes, in sweet delight I come,
Blithe at ev'ning from my toil:
Sure to find a peaceful home,
And receive a welcome smile!

While our Henry, charming boy,
Hails me with infantine wile;
I behold his mother's joy,
Pictur'd in a witching smile!

When the morning bids us part,
I to labor for a while;
No dejection sinks my heart,
Sure to meet thee with a smile!

Mary, thus thro' life we'll go;
Love shall ev'ry pain beguile,
While we linger here below,
Ever meeting with a Smile.

When we soar to worlds above,
Where no griefs the joys defile:
May th' Eternal Source of Love,
Hail us with a glorious smile.

TO PARENTS.

The annexed cases of cures performed by

HAMILTON'S
CELEBRATED WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES,

(Selected from a very numerous list.)

ARE presented as indubitable proof of the excellence and safety of this valuable specific for destroying worms in the human stomach and intestines.

From Mr. Benjamin Williams, No. 30, Baltimore street, two doors above south Gay-street.

I have a son six years of age, who for four years past, has been generally in a very unhealthy state, particularly in summer; frequently afflicted with alarming convulsion fits, the whole of his little frame wasted fast, his breath fœtid, and almost constant itching at the nose was excited, with other alarming symptoms. During the course of the above period, the advice and attendance of three of the most eminent physicians in Baltimore were successively procured. Each of these gentlemen, in his turn, declared worms to be the cause of the child's disorder, and exhausted his skill in attempting to expel them. Pink root, steel filings, with a variety of other medicines, were administered without the least success. It was once pronounced impossible for the child to live many hours.

I had heard of your Worm Destroying Lozenges, but with many others did not think highly of so cheap a medicine, until a gentleman of my acquaintance (Mr. Wm. S. Moore, auctioneer) in whose family they had been used with good effect, advised me to make trial of them; I accordingly gave my son a dose agreeable to directions, which soon expelled eight large worms, some of them about eight inches in length; a second dose brought away four more of similar size; a third dose being administered, no worms appeared. The child recovered and now enjoys a good state of health.

BENJAMIN WILLIAMS.

AFFIDAVIT.

Michael Duffy, residing at No. 47, Walkes street, Fell's Point, in the city of Baltimore voluntarily maketh oath that the following statement is just and true:

In the beginning of May last, my three children, a boy of seven, and two girls the one five, and the other three years of age were taken very ill; nearly at the same time, of a common fever, as I then supposed; but was soon convinced the disorder was caused by worms. They were frequently troubled with convulsion fits, and violent startings in their sleep, and with almost continual vomiting and purging, particularly the youngest. I made immediate application to a physician of the first reputation, and his medicines were administered with a confidence of success, which only increased our disappointment. The children grew daily worse, and I was absolutely without hopes of their recovery. The youngest soon appeared almost devoid of animation, and scarcely an inhabitant of this world. In this distressing moment I was told that Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges had performed many cures in cases equally desperate. I immediately purchased a box, and gave each of them a dose, which in a few hours produced the most desirable effects.—The eldest voided a great number of very large worms, and the second thousands of small ones, many of them not a quarter of an inch—in the youngest they seemed to be consumed, and had the appearance of skin and slimy matter. I repeated the dose agreeable to the paper of directions, and they all speedily recovered a good state of health, which they still enjoy, though 5 months have nearly elapsed, since they were on the borders of the grave, and the death of the whole seemed to be inevitable.

J. SMITH.

Sworn before me, this 26th day of September, 1799.

Philadelphia, August 5 1806.

TO H. LEE.

Some time last spring I was afflicted with loss of appetite, giddiness in the head, fever, and great debility, so that I could scarcely walk. In this distressing situation I took many things, but without benefit. An acquaintance in the country sent to me to procure a box of Hamilton's Lozenges. Curiosity prompted me to read the directions, where I found my complaint exactly described by the doctor. I immediately sent for another box of the Lozenges, and took one dose, which brought away a large quantity of worms, and I felt greatly relieved. Encouraged by this, I took another dose, which was attended with the happiest effects, as it delieved me entirely, and am now in a better state of health than for a considerable time tae nose, and about the seat—convulsions, eppiletic fits, and sometimes a privation of speech—irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious—purging with slimy and fœtid stools—vomiting—large and hard belly—pains and sickness at the stomach—pains in the head and thighs, with lowness of spirits—slow fever, with small and irregular pulse—a dry cough—excessive thirst—sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate resource to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

Prevention better than Cure.

In cases of head ache, foul stomach, and for removing superfluous bile, perhaps no remedy has been discovered superior to LEE'S HAHN'S ANTIBILIOUS PILLS, Which for 10 years past have been attended with the greatest success. The testimony of many respectable persons in our southern sea ports has been adduced who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy during the prevalence of malignant fevers, has preserved their health after experiencing alarming symptoms of fever.

Certificate of Wm. Devenny.

During the last nine years I have been in the habit of using Hahn's Antibilious Pills, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, whenever colds, head ache, or costiveness have rendered medicine necessary; in these cases a single dose has uniformly removed my head ache, and has generally been found sufficient to remove every symptom of a cold, if taken on its first appearance. Induced by the benefit I have received, I have for years past recommended them to many of my friends, and I have the pleasure to inform you, they have invariably succeeded in removing the above complaints.

Yours, WM. DEVENNY,

ITCH CURED.

Pinkerton's Collection of Voyages and Travels,

Forming a complete History of the Origin and Progress of Discovery by Sea and Land, from the most authentic Sources.

THE first number of this valuable Work is just come to hand and is ready for inspection at the store of the subscriber, in King-street, and with Mr. Triplet, at the coffee-house.

Fully aware of the impositions that have been practised upon the public by strangers soliciting subscriptions from distant places, the Editors invite their examination of the Work perhaps the most useful, entertaining, as well as extensive in its kind that has ever been undertaken in any country. And they flatter themselves that the American will by no means shrink from a comparison with the London edition, tho' offered at six dollars per Vol. less.

This number may be considered as a fair specimen of the execution of the work, and will be left a short time for examination, before the 2d number is put to press. After this the subscription will be raised to $2 25 each number; and but a few more copies printed than are sufficient to supply the subscribers, that the early patrons of this valuable Work may have a decided advantage—subsequent applications may therefore come too late.

It is also the intention of the Editors to annex to the last number a complete list of the names of the subscribers as the patrons and encouragers of useful knowledge, the arts and literature of the United States.

Subscriptions are received by the subscriber.
